KESWICK'S SHARE BILL.

AFTER a year of probation the Government has asked the Chamber of Commerce to report on the working of Kuswick's Share Bill, a measure practically abolishing time contracts in shares by making them invalid unless bearing the register numbers of the shares to be transferred. The ostensible object of this was to speculation, as immoral and pernicious.

The real one was to crush the aniagonists practice, is obvious. The seller, who at the time of Mr. Krswick's syndicate in share market; Mr. Krswick had, with in which to procure the stock which he has to others whose names are well known. been buying H. & S. Bank shares for forward delivery, and had in fact contracted to take more than he could pay for; his idea was to empty the market, and then corner his opponents, who he expected | cause of the stability of markets and the negotiwould be unable to obtain shares enough to fill the contracts. As it happened, Mr. and Sumatra Leaf, and smoke with a Long White Kuswick was overmatched; the sellers of Argentines, we should not now be weighted about. We found all the shares they wanted, and Mr. down by the Murrieta and Baring commitments. for 1891. KESWICE's syndicate began to tremble at The fall very possibly would have been as great the prospect of being called on to take as it was, but the repurchases of the bear would delivery and pay up. Then his Share Bill of 1891 was introduced, with loud professions of plous and disinterested motives. But it was not good enough. The fatal day could not be staved off, and Mr. Keswick found his Share Gambling Ordinance useless to help him. "Bonniz TAMIN'S noo Bwa' !"

> That, however, may possibly be considered beyond the sphere of the present inquiry. Indirectly it is strong presumptive evidence that the Share Ordinance cannot be much good, since it was designed for an evil purpose; but still, the worst intentions might bring good results, and it is now to be seen whether this law has done so. There is no great need to state our opinion now: we have stated it times without number. and the Chamber of Commerce may be relied on to endorse our strongest condemnation of the measure. Here at any rate is one step towards Governor Robinson's promised resuscitation of Hongkong finances, by the abolition of the heavy drag imposed by the Hon. J. J. KESWICE. For the further assistance of the Chamber and the Government we reprint from the Financial News a careful and moderate eye for the detection of slipshod work, are criticism of this sort of legislation:-

At regularly recurrent periods—usually fust before or just after a financial or commercial crisis, when it is far too late for the application of any remedy—we have a sentimental outery against the wickedness of speculation. At such times well-meaning but narrow-minded people FRUIT SYRUPS :- Lemon, Lime Juice, | demand, in the interests of what they call morality, the intervention of the law to prevent the scandals and losses which inevitably result from over-speculation. Just now we are passing through such a period, as witness the endeavour In this country to prohibit dealings for future delivery in pig-iron warrants and the resolutions with reference to bear sales recently passed by the committee of the Madrid Stock Exchange The alternot to make people moral-that is, in this connection, to keep them from speculating beyond their means—has always been, and always will by a failure. A far back as 1610 a Dutch law forbade the sale of shares not possessed by the seller at the time of the sale i 'h "1607 transactions having more than three days to run were made illeg I by English law. Y these measures did not avail to brevent the great panic in Holland in 1764. When the Neulvilles failed in Amsterdam, nor the South pradore, or his sureties: there will be Sea Bubble smain in 1720. Later on, in 1734, | probably no mention of the Jurado case, Barnard's Act probibited options in the public inor of anything which needs to be fully funds and gambling for differences, and, finally, explained. The meeting will, as usual, Leeman's Act, in 1867, forbade bear sales of be "closed with votes of thanks to the bark shares—these last two laws being more especially directed lagainst The bears. Whost op .rations were supposed to damage the mational credit. What effect have they had? We have had money panics in this country almost every twenty years, and frequently more often, in spite of this legislation. In 1772, 1703, 1707when the Bank of England suspended cash MR. GLADSTONE ON THE SITUATION payments and three per cent. Consols felido 51-1810, 1825, 1836, 1847, 1866, &c. In every 1 one of these cases the crisis was caused by ove speculation, which itself was the result of prior period of great prosperity.

labsolute necessity. The higher the tension and the longer it is kept up, the greater must be the reflex action; and in proportion to the extent which it has been carried and the volume speculation to be liquidated, so will the afternit position of the Irish members in the House of math of depression be. Life has been said to a game" of speculation, and every business transaction contains the elements of speculation to a greater or lesser degree. In France the impossibility of checking tyeculation his been realised, After a series of laws, in 172 1785, 1786, &c. in the opposite direction, a final conclusion was arrived at in 1885. when for the account in the public funds and rallway [India. shrees were declared illegal a but these measures were abrogated in 1860. "As in this country, so in Germany, the Gambling Actions still pleaded; but, as we know, that Act is absolutely ineffectual in any transaction carried out by duly authorised agents on the Stock Exchange Sphiolation in gold was forbidden in the Unite States in 1864, and only a year or sough we had "Orders for Copies of THE "HONGKONG the fut le attempts of the Argentine Government to reduce the premium on gold by closing the tourse and refusing to allow gold to be quoted. Yet we continually hear "bear raids" denounced, and the public sentiment, for some coult reason, is distinctly adverse to bears. The resolution first presed by the committee of the Madrid Stock Exchange is a remarkable instance of this anti-bear feeling. It provides that a purchaser for future delivery on a given day may compel immediate delivery from the seller by giving forty-eight hours notice. The gross unfairness of such a rule, if carried luto of the contract thinks he has two or three weeks deliver, may find five minutes later that be has only forty-eight hours in which to do sa The sole result would be that no one would sell strek which he did not possess at the time of the sale; in fact, it would effectually prevent all bear operations, and thus do away with the chief ability of stocks. THE HONGRONG AND SHANGHAI BANK.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank has during the past three years met with a succession of heavy losses which even the best of business could not fully pay for, while the depressed state of commerce has strongly emphasised the seriousness of the disasters. Such a succession of misadventures cannot be pure chance or the fortune of war; there must be some radical defect underlying the whole system, which will continue to produce the same lamentable results until a thorough remedy is provided. If none is forthcoming within a year or two, the disease will certainly reach the fatal stage.

The trouble lies in the fact that those whose business is to watch with an eagle almost all utterly indifferent to their duty. The auditors, good worthy gentlemen, are satisfied if they find the books kept with arithmetical correctness, and never dream of criticising the business methods of the Bank. As long as the books are not falsified, or rather as long as the auditors detect no faisification, they are willing to certify that everything is right. It never occurs to them to say "this amount was foolishly spent" or "that item cannot be Justified." Similarly the shareholders take no note of such matters, although they are called together semi-annually for the purpose of expressing their opinions. Bank conducted so callously deserves to meet with trouble.

At the meeting to be held this day week I there should be a great deal of heckling but there will be none. Nobody will ask how stands the account of a "retiring" (1) director, Mr. Kzswick; nobody will want to know anything of the missing comdirectors and chairman."

A NATIVE Calcutta paper gives a thrilling story of a man of Lahore who was pronounced to be dead of cholers. He came to life again, however, after an interval of two hours, and just in time to escape sepulture. He related, on regaining his speech, that he had been taken through a dark and fiery passage by the messengers of death, and brought before a dark-visaged person of uncommon height. The latter at once remonstrated with them for having selsed the wrong person, and told them to set the deceased at liberty. People are going in flocks to see the man who has come back from the Unknown.

On the same day Count Okuma received a similar package the method adopted also being similar. The police attribute the outrage to soshi.

G. R. Dibbs. Colonial Secretary and Premier of New "South "Wales, "of which "colony he "is a native, having been born in Sydney in 1834. He is the first Australian-born Premier who has visited Europe, and is in many respects a representative colonist. Educated at a college in Sydney he commenced his career at the age of 14 by going to sea, after which he entered upon a commercial life, the names of the firms of which he was the head being "familiar as household words" throughout Australasia. In 1874 he became a member of the New South Wales Legislative Assembly, and in 1882 he accepted the office of Colonial Treasurer in the Ministry formed by the late Sir Alexander Stuart Indian and Colonial Exhibition. On the reconstruction of the Ministry in 1885, Mr. Dibbs acted first as Colonial Secretary and Premier, and subsequently as Colonial Treasurer. In the following year he again whecame Secretary under Sir Patrick Jennings, holding office until January, 1887." Subsequently he joined the Protectionist party and became leader. of the Parliamentary opposition to Sir Henry Parkes, whom, at the beginning of 1880, he succeeded as Premier for a few weeks, and again in October of last year, the office being still retained or him. Mr. Dibbs was a member of the Federation Conference which met some months ago in Sydney and has taken an active part n many industrial and political movements having for their object the wellare of the colony. He possesses a high character for integrity and business capacity and is personally respected even by those who differ from him on political questions, Like many native Australians, he is of commanding stature, resembling in respect Tricket, Spofforth, the "demon bowler." and other representative colonials with which the British people have, become familiar, and is everywhere a great favorite by reason of bis genial disposition, which is accompanied by a certain amount of impulsiveness frequently making him, in Parliament, an Australian "Rupert of debate." She was told that they were. Going upstairs, she rang at the door. The gentleman, her husband, opened It, and cried, "What I You here ! But, mind, don't make scandal !" Passing by him, she made her way into an inner bedroom, and finding there a lady (Madame Lassimonne) discharged at her three balls from a revolver, morially wounding her. It was all done in a moment. No suggestion, however, was made for an exchange of the New Habrides for New Caledonia.

In a former number of this Journal there was an article on ther! Future of Silver." At that time the rupes had taken an neward leap in. consequence of certain operations in America. This positive feeling greatly astonished the present writer, who thereupon proceeded in that article to challenge the grounds of such confidence.

The Americans had started monthly purchases of silver. They were storing the bullion in their vaults. They were putting it to no use whatever. This storage was merely a "corner" in silver. Similarly one merchant, or it may be a syndicate, can make a corner in cotton or in wheat.

The wealth of America-above ground and below-consists partly of silver and partly of various other commodities. These various other. 'commodities are here considered as placed all in one group. Let us imagine that the price of silver and of every other article is measured in gold. Similarly, for the world outside America, there is so much silver-nriced in gold-and an

Now let America, by some trick of trade, enhance the price of silver. Also, for the Miss Bessie Beilwood has withdrawn her moment, let us assume that of all other goods constipation. While America is adopting these temporary measures—for temporary they must clearly bewe see that the countries of Europe are introducing gold into their currency. But what is India doing ?. She is drifting helplessly to confusion.

Whether we call ourselves bimetallists—or whether we keep to the older camp where the monometallic flag is still flying-we cannot but admit that the Indian Currency system is rotten. If India could build a brass wall round her coasts and to as isolated from the rest of the world as she is from the planet Jupiter then indeed the rupes might serve all our needs. But when, year by year, India extends her commercial relations abroad—is it not clear even to an "unfinancial "intelligence that some stable connection between Indian currency and
